Vision

North Simcoe OHT partners are committed to creating a seamless, coordinated, comprehensive system of care for the residents of North Simcoe. We strive to meet the unique needs of our communities, accounting for cultural and linguistic consideration, as well as the holistic well-being of complex and vulnerable members. Working together as partners – with engagement from patients and caregivers – our vision is to improve health outcomes, quality of care and the patient experience within the healthcare and social services system.

Guiding Principles

Holistic and person-centered approach

Providing care that is important and meaningful to individuals and that address all aspects of an individual's care including the social determinants of health.

Nothing about me without me

Collectively co-designing the future of care partnership with the entire community. Work together to look at our system as a whole. Including those receiving services in the processes and decisions about changes in our co-design processes.

Collaboration, equity and inclusivity

The diverse voices and perspectives in our community and ensuring that all voices are equal and can provide input into our future. Ensuring that francophone, indigenous, LGTBQ2 and the many other diverse voices are represented.

Everyone has a role to play

Acting in partnership as a collective community, with no boundaries for partnerships and a focus for ongoing relationship building. Each person does their part to achieve our common objectives and we mutually value, trust and recognize one another's expertise.

Commitment to open and ongoing communication

Finding ways to enhance sharing and taking responsibility to communicate effectively with each other and among all our partners. Taking a proactive approach to problem solving and our work together.

Shared leadership, accountability and decision-making
